

Notice to Customers: Hurricane Florence Preparation & Call Routing

Dear Fusion Customer,

We want our customers to know we're with you as you prepare for Hurricane Florence. Fusion is committed to providing the highest reliability possible to our customers. In adverse weather conditions, such as hurricanes, factors outside of Fusion's control may result in service issues in impacted areas. We want to assure you that we fully understand the importance of your business communications services and we will work diligently with our partners to repair impacted services resulting from Hurricane Florence.

In an effort to minimize impact, we remind you that Fusion's cloud-based voice services include forwarding and mobility features that enable you to redirect your business lines to help you remain operational should the hurricane compromise the power or Internet service at your business location.

If you are in Hurricane Florence's predicted path, we advise you to set up call forwarding to help keep communication lines open. Please see the instructions below to guide you through that process.
